

Michael Handelman

Michael designs and produces interactive learning experiences that challenge and inspire users to engage in ways that lead to real understanding and transformational change.

Michael has been creating educational and interactive multimedia for almost 20 years, producing more than 90 products with combined sales surpassing 100 million units. Some of his award-winning creations include two apps developed with Dr. Michael Baran, “Don’t Guess My Race” and “Who Am I? Race Awareness Game,” which were honored as Common Sense Media’s and HundrEd’s top 100 educational programs. He specializes in crafting innovative and effective learning solutions that go beyond traditional e-learning to engage and delight users.

Before joining inQUEST, Michael has previously worked as an interactive producer for LeapFrog, director of content and co-founder of an educational technology startup company, and as a strategic advisor for PBS, as well as several educational technology startups.

Michael received his B.A. from Emory University and his M.A. in psychology from Alliant University.

“I’m passionate about finding innovative ways to ensure differences are understood and celebrated, so everyone feels valued and respected.”

Michael is an expert in:

---

- + Developing targeted interactive content.
- + Working with clients and subject matter experts to create human-centered learning experiences.
- + Crafting innovative and engaging diversity and inclusion tools and apps that make lasting change.

 mhandelman@inquestconsulting.com

About inQUEST

We’re building inclusive cultures for a world in constant change—helping individuals, teams and organizations think, lead and interact inclusively.

inquestconsulting.com